

The Nation's Health, August 2021, Volume 51, No. 6

Nation

Nation in Brief

- Study: Urban heat islands harm minorities, low-income people
- Affordable Care Act steadfast in face of latest high court challenge

State and Local

New state, local laws threaten vital public health authority: Backlash from COVID-19 protections

Kentucky county saving lives through harm reduction service

States in Brief

Globe

WHO: Women hold only a quarter of global health leadership positions

Globe in Brief

On the Job

COVID-19 vaccination mandates increasing for health workers: Protecting patients, staff from disease

Interest in public health degrees jumps in wake of pandemic: Applications rise

Healthy You

What your hair is telling you about your health

- Express yourself! Feel good about your hair

Health Findings

Health Findings

APHA News

McGhee to keynote APHA 2021's opening session: Register by Aug. 19 to save on Denver, online Annual Meeting

Chanyasulkit, Manderscheid face off for APHA president position

New edition of APHA volume a field guide to disaster readiness: 20th anniversary of vital resource

APHA in Brief

APHA Advocates

President's Column

Ending gun violence epidemic requires public health strategies

Student Focus

New York public health students honor COVID-19 vaccination leaders

Students in Brief

Journal Watch

Journal Watch

General

Summer Reads: Public health steps into the limelight — New books explore gun violence, racism, COVID-19, vaccines

Web-only News

Newsmakers: August 2021 [e11]

Resources: August 2021 [e12]