

The Nation's Health, October 2022 Volume 52, No. 8

Nation

Public health workers fine-tune messaging on monkeypox: Lessons from COVID-pandemic shape engagement <OA>

Now hiring: 3,000 people sought to shore up local public health, build career skills: Q&A with Public Health AmeriCorps' Pearlman <OA>

New call to action supports equity in injury, violence prevention strategies

Nation in Brief

State & Local

Community teams support healthy eating, access to care through Healthiest Cities & Counties Challenge <OA>

Healthy You

Put vaccinations on your family back-to-school list <OA>

Health Findings

Health Findings

Special Report

U.S. cities launch equity-based resilience programs in face of growing heat <OA>

Freight routes harm health of nearby residents: People of color, low incomes disproportionately harmed <OA>

JEDI principles offer playbook to improve climate readiness <OA>

Environmental justice hub creates connections <OA>

Editorial: Building support for advocacy on climate can boost community health <OA>

APHA News

Association members praise new APHA LEAD platform: Member-only tool helps health workers learn, share, network

Health education opportunities abound at APHA 2022 in Boston: Learning Institutes, labs sharpen skills <OA>

Making it visual: New APHA Press book uses imagery to share research

APHA in Brief

APHA Advocates

President's Column

Those we've lost: Standing on the shoulders of public health giants

Journal Watch

Journal Watch

Sections

PHEHP Section marks 100 years of public health education, promotion <OA>