

The Nation's Health, January 2024, Volume 53, No. 10

Nation

US life expectancy inches up, but nation not on par with peers <OA>

PrEP use rising, but uptake lags among women, people of color <OA>

Creative recruitment can boost college admission diversity <OA>

Public health works for environmental justice in vulnerable US communities <OA>

Pharmacists playing greater role in prescribing contraceptives

Many college students with food insecurity have sleep problems <OA>

Affiliates

New York state health association honored as APHA Affiliate of year <OA>

APHA Affiliates honored by COA for public health excellence

Healthy You

For a healthy pregnancy, be wise and immunize <OA>

- Don't wait to vaccinate

APHA News

APHA 2023 inspires public health workforce in Atlanta <OA>

Members choose Wathington as next APHA president

Submissions for APHA 2024 in Minneapolis due by March 29 <OA>

APHA-Kaiser fellows improving public health <OA>

New co-editors to lead APHA's 'Control of Communicable Diseases Manual'

National Public Health Week 2024 to spotlight connections <OA>

APHA Governing Council adopts seven new policy statements

- Policy statements adopted at APHA 2023

New Association policy statement submissions due by Feb. 12

APHA in Brief

President's Column

Finding the 'e-zone': engaging, energizing and empowering

Online-only

APHA member groups recognize public health achievements [e5] <OA>