The Nation’s Health, March 2012, Volume 42, No. 2

Nation

Health concerns of ‘fracking’ drawing increased attention: EPA conducting studies on health effects

Digital games emerge as new tool to foster health, exercise: Playing for health

Global campaign takes aim at health hazards of cookstoves: Women, children bear brunt of burden

FDA issues order to regulate certain antibiotics in U.S. food animals

Report shows popularity of commuting by bicycle growing

Richard Clover, chair of the National Board of Public Health Examiners: Credentialing shows ‘commitment:’ Professionalizing the field of public health via certification

Revised school food standards seek more grains, less fat

Nation in Brief

Healthy You

Breastfeed your baby for a healthy start

• How does breast milk help babies?

Health Findings

Health Findings

APHA News

For National Public Health Week, every community can pitch in to help

Berwick to keynote Midyear Meeting, registration now open

New guide highlights effective preparedness communication

Final 2011 APHA policy statements adopted in November now available

APHA seeking theme ideas for 2014 meeting in New Orleans

Submissions now being accepted for APHA’s Get Ready Scholarship

APHA Advocates

President’s Column

Income and inequality in the U.S.: A matter of envy, or fairness?

Journal Watch
Journal Watch

Sections
APHA Caucuses now working together to strengthen activities
Pfizer scholarships help students attend APHA Annual Meeting
APHA Sections join Flu Near You Challenge to help track influenza
APHA’s Environment Section releases anniversary video

Web-only News
Online-only: Eating animal fat before pregnancy increases risk for gestational diabetes [e7]
Online-only: New IOM report aims to reduce burden of chronic illnesses [e8]
Online-only: Cancer screening rates lower among Asian and Hispanic Americans, study finds [e9]
Newsmakers: March 2012 [e10]
Resources: March 2012 [e11]