

The Nation's Health, January 2025, Volume 54, No. 10

Nation

Public health readying for impact of new leadership in Congress, White House <OA>

Food as medicine movement gaining traction across US <OA>

Coordinated public health approach to cannabis policy needed <OA>

Public health preparing for growing needs of older adults as population swells in US <OA>

Social media videos can help young adults quit vaping habit

Criminalizing drug paraphernalia a barrier to harm reduction

Preparation needed for next pandemic, health leaders warn

State & Local

Kentucky program takes aim at child sex trafficking <OA>

Jurisdictions take public health action on racism

Providing basic income can lower homelessness, boost employment

Healthy You

Keeping your kids safe from guns in the home <OA>

Health Findings

Meeting Findings: Research presented during APHA 2024

APHA News

National Public Health Week 2025 celebrates 30th anniversary <OA>

Save the date: Abstract submissions for APHA 2025 open online Jan. 6

Members elect Marshall as next APHA president

APHA in brief

Updated guide helps students study for CPH exam <OA>

APHA 2024 in Minneapolis energizes public health field <OA>

Governing Council kicks off new policy process

- Policy briefs adopted at APHA 2024

Institute helps women find their inner superhero

President's Column

Leveraging strength, demonstrating resolve, continuing the vital work

Sections

Working group tour spotlights environmental justice in action <OA>

Member groups honor public health leaders with awards at APHA 2024

Student Focus

Students share public health research, explore ethics issues at APHA 2024

Affiliates

Iowa Public Health Association named APHA Affiliate of the Year <OA>

APHA Affiliates honored by COA for public health dedication, excellence

NYSPPHA engaging youth on climate change <OA>

Web-only News

Newsmakers: January 2025 <OA> [exx]